

Zeta Report

The women of Zeta strive for professional and personal growth through building meaningful relationships and making connections with each other and our community. Through respect, trust, reflection, and collaboration we work together to empower each other to continue to grow not only professionally but to reach out and make an impact in our community. We strive to look for a balance between our business meetings and social events to ensure all our members are recharged and energized. The activities we choose are carefully thought through to offer range of interest areas and opportunities to maximize engagement of all our members. From wine tastings, hiking, paint nights, polar plunges to community outreach we are continually looking for a variety of ways to build those meaningful relationships with each other as we reach out to new members to grow our numbers and make a larger impact as a whole.
